Dear Parents

I am writing further to my earlier letter. It is indicative of the volatility of the circumstances in which we find ourselves that, in the relatively short time since sending my earlier letter today, sufficient has changed to prompt me to write again.

Sadly, staffing pressures have led me to make the decision that I must reduce the number of students in school tomorrow. In the circumstances, I have decided that Year 11 students will not attend tomorrow. This is an unfortunately abrupt end and I give them my best wishes until we see them again, whenever that might be.

As I said earlier, I shall write to Year 11 parents again separately once I am in a position to clarify what the Government's intentions are in the matter of GCSE qualifications.

Yours sincerely

S Wilkinson
