

Free Audiobooks

Audible

Scan the QR code to the left to see the free audiobooks that you can listen to without needing an Audible account.

SCAN ME

Librivox

Scan the QR code to the right to see the free audiobooks that you can download or listen to on your browser.

SCAN ME

Youtube

Scan the QR code to the left to browse the free audiobooks that you can listen to. If you can't see one you like, search by title.

SCAN ME

There are so many brilliant audiobooks available online to listen to for free, including:

Roald Dahl

The Hunger Games

The Jungle Book

SHERLOCK HOLMES

The Chronicles of Narnia

Free eBooks

There are thousands of free books online that can be read on your phone, tablet or laptop.

Project Gutenberg

Use the QR code to the left to read amazing books that are out of copyright. The Sherlock Holmes stories, The Wizard of Oz, The Time Machine, The Secret Garden and so much more!

SCAN ME

Internet Archive

Use the QR code to the right to read library books from around the world. You will need to create an account, but it's free and easy. Once you have joined, you can borrow books or go on a waiting list for them.

SCAN ME

Wattpad

This website will require you to create an account, but you can read books and short stories by famous authors and by other teenagers. It also allows you a place to write your own story, self-publish it and even share it with friends.

SCAN ME

Choose-Your-Own-Lesson

Why not take this opportunity to learn something new? Use the websites below, play sudoku on the New York Times website, practise your language skills on Duolingo or Babbel, investigate a hobby or moment in history on YouTube.

Scholastic

Learn how emojis are made, discover your personality type, learn the chemistry behind sour sweets, explore the location where Star Wars was filmed.

SCAN ME

TED Talks

Choose from the best TED talks online, including a discussion about whether schools kill creativity, how spam email works, how to spot a liar, and the science of happiness. Learn something new today.

SCAN ME

National Geographic

Use the resources provided by teachers around the world to investigate robotics, extinction, the science behind your food, how Google Earth works and so much more.

SCAN ME